DID YOU KNOW?

In deaf culture, people use two different spellings of the word deaf that hold significance: Capital D Deaf, in which a person identifies as a member of the deaf community and culture. Small d deaf, for a person that is deaf but doesn't identify as part of the community or culture.

WINNING HEALTH & WEALTH

"It is the most amazing feeling, years ago I was facing bankruptcy. So this means we can stop living pay check to pay check and cover off debt and do things we could never afford."

With only $20 in his bank account, and days away from his next pay check this lottery win couldn't have come at a more crucial time. "A close family member is going through some health issues and is unable to work so this means the world to us as we will be able to afford the treatment without additional stress." - says Andrew.*

Andrew's Lottery 204 winnings will be going towards looking after the health of his family, paying off his bills, taking care of his animals and a road trip in his new car.

Your ticket to an unforgettable $800K SUMMER

Sun. Surf. Support.

Granting opportunities for projects to support and empower the families of Deaf, hard of hearing and Deafblind families through sponsorships and grants.

Unlock an endless summer with Lottery 210. A chance to support children and families in the Deaf community, with a $2 lottery ticket and a chance to win $800,000 to spend however you choose! It's thanks to the support of the Deaf Lottery participants that we are able to deliver these important services to families.

Over 90% of babies born with a hearing loss are born to hearing parents. Many of these families have no experience with the Deaf community and no friends or family with experience raising children with a hearing loss.

Deaf Connect is dedicated to supporting Deaf and hard of hearing children and their families building long lasting bilingual relationships through creating strong communities and providing support.

We understand that raising a child who is Deaf or with hearing loss is a unique experience that differs for everyone and is a spectrum across children with hearing loss, speech delay, hearing loss in one ear, sensorineural hearing loss and conductive hearing loss.

Renee is a mother that discovered our Therapy and Family Services program after struggling to find suitable support for her son. She knew straight away she was making the right decision.

"When we were looking at options, it just didn't gel with me that many places we tried would just tell kids to talk, without considering how the child wanted to naturally express themselves," says Renee.

"We choose this service option because they allowed my son to communicate in the way he naturally did, and build on that."

The goal of Deaf Connect's Therapy and Family Services is to empower these children and families to thrive at every stage of life. Through peer support and the ability to connect with others who are going through similar experiences.

"Our services for Deaf and hard of hearing children are not just about helping families navigate everyday life, with resources and expert allied health services to support families in promoting a bilingual approach to early intervention; but also about providing parent connection and access to our community." - Jen McKee, General Manager Therapy and Family Services.
